

The best is yet to come... The newlyweds start married life by taking centre stage for their first dance to Harry Connick Jr's version of the classic It Had to be You. And

'Rob's going to be the best husband - he's the greatest blessing in my life'

What song have you chosen for your first dance?

R: "It Had to be You, the Harry Connick Jr version. And then we've made a long playlist for the DJ - nothing too cool, just classic, big, brash, '80s, school disco songs that are fun and everyone wants to dance to, like Walk Like an Egyptian, some current hits, like Fight For This Love - Cheryl Cole's going to be playing in the joint - Shakira. Naff-tastic."

Were you tempted to sing on your wedding day, Robbie?

"I was a bit tempted, but I don't think so..."

Do you love watching him perform, Ayda?

"Aside from him being my husband and the most incredible human being, he is the best entertainer in the entire world. I'm so proud of him. Even if he's nervous before, when he gets on stage he just steps into it and wows everybody."

Are you planning to take a honeymoon straight away?

R: "Sometimes I forget Ayda is a Los Angelian, because to me right now, this is our honeymoon, just being at home together in LA is a holiday for me."

You've said of Ayda before, "She's broody and I'm getting there" - are you there yet Robbie?

"It's another layer of the onion, yet I find myself being constantly surprised. I'm less broody than Ayda but I think it's inevitable."

A: "I'm broody, but I want us to have a baby when the time's right."

R: "I still feel like a 12-year-old and the concept of... you know..."

A: "It's a scary concept!"

R: "Yes, let's leave it at that."

Are you still keen to pursue your acting career, Ayda?

"Yes, but I have to figure out how, and I'm not sure what form work will take or where it will be, in England or here. But right now I'm just happy to be supporting Rob."

Are you planning to stay in LA for the foreseeable future?

A: "We'll be living here in LA as Mr and Mrs Williams, but we'll be spending more time in the UK over the coming year too."

R: "We just want to build on this momentum of happiness, and I want to be as unselfish as I can be."
